

LABORER BURIED IN SEWER TRENCH

Had Been Dead Several Hours
When Found by Fellow Workmen.

STRANGER IN SALT LAKE

SPOKE GERMAN AND WAS IN TRANSIENT CLASS.

While at work in a sewage trench under a sidewalk in front of 234 South Temple street, west, yesterday afternoon, Joseph Murrell, aged 32, was buried under several tons of earth and suffocated before his fellow workmen knew that there had been an accident.

At about 5 o'clock N. Nelson of 50 West Fifth South street, was hunting for a lantern, as he was about to leave the work, and discovered that the little sewage tunnel that Murrell had been working in was stopped up. He leaped down into the opening, but failed to find the missing workman.

There was no response, and he gave the alarm that the man had been buried alive. Assisted by L. Fox of 208 South West Temple street, who has the plumbing contract in the building from which the man was tunneling, and which is being erected by the George Q. Cannon association, Nelson began a search under the sidewalk. Seril Schlack of 115 East First South street, who was at work on the building foundation as a shoveler, also gave aid, and in ten minutes had reached a point directly under the sidewalk and about five feet down.

Buried Three Hours.
After working some time, the dead man's head was uncovered. Physicians were summoned and they expressed opinion that the man had been dead at least two hours. As near as Nelson, who is a sub-contractor in excavation, remembers, Murrell stopped shoveling at about 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Nelson had expected to find his man still at work at quitting time. Little is known regarding Murrell. He spoke a rather broad German accent with his English. Practically penniless, he came to the hotel of the Volunteers of America ten days ago. He was employed by Nelson a week ago, and when he had drawn wages for two days' work changed his rooming place to the American House in Commercial street. He had few friends, but to his employer he expressed intention of going to San Francisco as soon as he could raise funds. The body was taken to the mortuary of O'Donnell & Company, where arrangements will be made for burial.

A GOOD CHANGE.

A Change of Food Works Wonders.

The wrong food and drink causes a lot of trouble in this world. To change the food is the first duty of every person that is ill, particularly from stomach and nervous troubles. As an illustration: A lady in Mo. has, with her husband, been brought around to health again by leaving off coffee and eating Postum. They began using Postum and Grape-Nuts food. She says:

"For a number of years I suffered with stomach and bowel trouble which kept getting worse until I was very ill most of the time. About four years ago I left off coffee and began taking Postum. My stomach and bowels improved right along, but I was so reduced in flesh and so nervous that the least thing would over come me.

"Then I changed my food and began using Grape-Nuts in addition to Postum. I lived on these two principally for about four months. Day by day I gained in flesh and strength until now the nervous trouble has entirely disappeared and I feel that I owe my life and health to Postum and Grape-Nuts food.

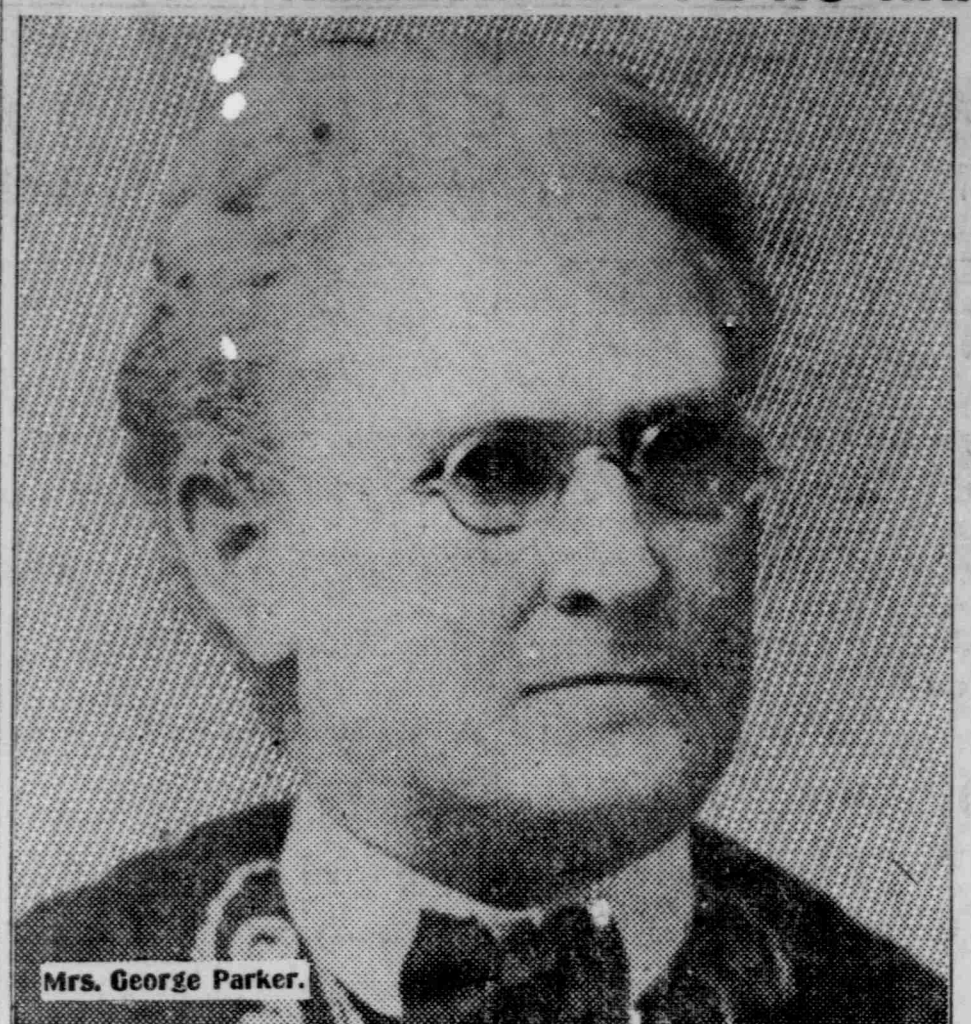

"Husband is 73 years old and he was troubled for a long time with occasional cramps and sleep badly. Finally I prevailed upon him to leave off coffee and take Postum. He had stood out for a long time, but after he tried Postum for a few days he found that he could sleep and that his cramps disappeared. He was satisfied and has never gone back to coffee.

"I have a brother in California who has been using Postum for several years; his whole family use it also because they have had such good results from it."

Look in pkgs. for the little book, "The Road to Wellville." "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

SUFFERED MANY YEARS RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA.

Mrs. George Parker.

Colds and Catarrh.

Mrs. George Parker, 419 Water St., Menasha, Wis., writes: "We have used Peru in our family for a number of years, and have found it a perfectly reliable medicine. It soon rids the system of any traces of a cold, and prevents serious consequences."

"I began using it for catarrh, which I suffered with a good many years, but had not been very serious until recently. Since I have taken Peru the dropping in my throat has discontinued, and my head and nose are not so stopped in the morning. I am pleased with the results, and shall continue to use it until I am entirely rid of catarrh."

"I heartily recommend it as an honest medicine."

Head and Lungs.

Mr. John McLaughlin, 1419 School St., Chicago, Ill., and his wife express their appreciation of the merits of Peru in the following words:

"We are pleased to testify as to the merits of Peru in cases of catarrh. We were both troubled with catarrh of the head and lungs for several years, and did not seem to find anything which would benefit us."

"Finally, on the recommendation of a friend, we took Peru, and in a short time were on the road to recovery."

"Now we keep Peru in the house all the time, and when either of us contract a cold a few doses will set us right. It acts as a preventive of catarrh, and is also very fine to build up the strength."

"We believe it to be an honest medicine, well worthy the confidence of the sick."

MAKING CANDY AT HOME NOT A DIFFICULT TASK

Elaborate Paraphernalia Unnecessary ---Ordinary Cooking Appliances Sufficient---Recipes and Processes Are Simple.

What housewife does not cherish a desire, especially Christmas-time, to understand the mysterious art of candy-making—to manufacture in her own kitchen, with ordinary cooking utensils, some of the many toothsome sweets displayed in the candy store? Like the conjurer's trick, "It is easy when you know how it is done." There is really no mystery in the art of candy-making, but confectioners usually keep their secrets; therefore, cook books contain white-aproned masters of alchemy and tomes of secret recipes, years of patient study and experimenting, and dollars upon dollars of capital. The housewife continues to dabble in the home-made kind, and only dreams of the confectioner's kind, when, as a matter of fact, it is just as easy to successfully produce the latter as the former. It is only a matter of carefully following the same recipes the confectioner uses.

Candy-making by confectioners, however, is a profession, and their recipes, like the doctor's prescription, cannot always be read by the layman. Before they can be used by the housewife in an ordinary kitchen they must be shorn of technical terms and recast in language that she will understand. The directions herein given are professional recipes altered to meet the requirements of the housewife. Ordinary cooking utensils only are necessary, and all expensive paraphernalia may be dispensed with. The confectioner uses great kettles and labor-saving machinery because he manufactures in large quantities, not because they are essential to the production of good candy.

The innumerable cream candies, and in fact almost every variety of sweets displayed in the confectioner's shop, can be traced to a simple combination of two or more equally simple compounds. The foundation of the cream candies is a combination of sugar, water and cream of tartar, which the confectioners call "fondant." This fondant forms the base of all the cream candies, and the combinations that can be made with it are surprising. The ingredients, which should be mixed in the order given, are as follows:

Granulated sugar, four cupsful. Hot water, two cupsful. Cream of tartar, one level teaspoonful.

Stir over a slow fire until thoroughly dissolved, but do not allow it to boil. As soon as it is dissolved, take a damp cloth and wipe away any grains that appear around the sides of the pan. Then put the mixture over a quick fire and let it boil until it makes a soft ball when tried in cold water. Remove from the fire and set aside to cool, but do not pour it out of the pan in which it was cooked. It is important that it should cool evenly; therefore do not try to hasten the cooling by putting the pan in cold water. As soon as it is cool—cold—stir energetically with a spoon until it becomes a thick, creamy mass. When too stiff to stir, take it in the hands and knead. Its lightness depends upon the amount of kneading, and there is no danger of overdoing it. When quite light and creamy, put it into an earthen dish and cover with a slightly dampened cloth. If the cloth is kept damp the fondant will keep for weeks, and it is improved by age. It should be allowed to stand at least twenty-four hours before being used.

It sometimes happens, in spite of the greatest care, that the fondant comes out grainy after being stirred. Should this occur, do not be discouraged; simply cover it with water and stir until it is thoroughly dissolved. Then put on the fire and cook again. The grains must be wiped from around the sides of the pan before it comes to a boil, and care should be taken not to jar the pan while it is cooking or cooling.

The above directions are for white fondant, the kind used most by confectioners. This may be flavored and colored in a variety of ways by following the directions given later. There is one other kind of fondant which goes well in the combinations to be made. This is made as follows:

Four cupsful of brown sugar. Two cupsful of maple syrup. Two cupsful of hot water. One level teaspoonful of cream of tartar.

Cool this in the same manner as white fondant.

HOW DRUNKARD WAS SAVED.

They are repeating at Virginia Hot Springs a witticism Theodore F. Shonts, the railway magnate.

A well known New York clubman had died, and a group of gentlemen were discussing his career over a game of cards. "Poor fellow! Poor fellow!" one of the gentlemen sighed. "They say if it hadn't been for his wife he would have filled a drunkard's grave."

"Ah, yes," said Mr. Shonts, with a faint smile; "she did have him cremated, didn't she?"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Stomach Misery For Over Six Years

Read what Mr. Hoffman, landlord of the Webster hotel, writes: "I suffered misery and intense pains from stomach trouble for over six years, and all the doctoring I did or medicines I used were of no avail until about two years ago, when I used a treatment of Mi-o-na. The first few days' treatment helped me greatly and upon using it a while I was made entirely free from any stomach trouble or complaint whatever. Since the cure by Mi-o-na I have regained my weight, I eat and sleep well, am never nervous, and my entire general health is much better."—Max M. Hoffman, Webster N. Y., August 2, 1909.
